

Green Squared is a true lifecycle performance standard, addressing everything from raw material extraction to end of product life management.

The Green Squared standard provides a consistent set of criteria for evaluating the sustainability of tile and tile installation products.

It is the world's only multi-attribute sustainability standard for tile and all associated products needed to install it.

When you see the Green Squared Certified mark, you know a product meets the broad array of rigorous sustainability requirements of the American National Standards Institute (ANSI) specifications.
